Taiwan: An Island Paradise

Taiwan is a Chinese island, it's about the same size as Holland, it's long, but it's not wide. The Taiwanese are Chinese, but nine tribes still live in the high mountains of Taiwan. The tribes have fine festivals and the tribesmen make fantastic tribal art.

Taiwan has a tropical climate and mild winters. Fine days are seldom, but the sunshine is hot; Taiwan often has cloud and rain, and landslides happen in tropical storms.

Lots of butterflies and dragonflies live in Taiwan, but no tigers or crocodiles. Taiwan has many kinds of birds. It has gliding ibises and white storks. The Chinese green tree viper often eats birds. Hibiscus flowers and irises are most attractive.

If you visit Taiwan, it is best to have a guide to help you, unless you speak Chinese. Yes, Taiwan is an island paradise.
